Critical Minerals Expert Lara Smith on the Increasing Demand for Antimony

written by InvestorNews | August 8, 2023

In a recent InvestorIntel interview, Tracy Weslosky spoke with Lara Smith, a global critical minerals expert and the Executive Director and CEO of Molten Metals Corp. (CSE: MOLT), an antimony exploration and development company.

Antimony, which is now identified on the current critical mineral hit lists in the USA, Canada, Australia, Europe, and the UK, is traditionally used as a flame retardant and for hardening bullets. And today, antimony is increasingly being used in antimony molten salt batteries for renewable energy storage.

With just 17 million shares outstanding, Molten Metals aims to transition from exploration to production. The company's objective is to capitalize on small, highly de-risked antimony opportunities that can be put into production quickly and cheaply.

Lara, also a member of the CMI board of directors and an internationally recognized expert, revealed the company's current priority is their Trojarova asset in Europe. Once operational, Trojarova has the potential to be the fourth or fifth largest antimony producer globally. To access the full interview, click here
