Resouro Strategic Metals Inc. is a Canadian mineral exploration and development company focused on advancing projects in Brazil. Its flagship asset is the Tiros Project in northern Minas Gerais, a 450 km<sup>2</sup> property targeting rare earth elements and titanium. The project includes 17 exploration permits and several pending approvals, with Resouro holding a 90% stake through its Brazilian subsidiary, while the remaining 10% is owned by RBM Consultoria Mineral Eireli. The company also holds interests in the Novo Mundo gold project in the Alta Floresta Gold Province, central Brazil, comprising three exploration permits near the towns of Novo Mundo and Guaranta do Norte. Additionally, Resouro holds a minor interest in the Santa Angela gold project, which is not material to its operations. Both gold projects are owned through the company's wholly owned Brazilian subsidiary.
