

Peter Nicholson of WEALTH (WCPD Inc.) on Setting a Record with $100 Million Charity Flow-Through (CFT) Financing for Skeena Resources

written by InvestorNews | September 16, 2024

September 16, 2024 – In a recent interview with Tracy Hughes of InvestorNews, Peter Nicholson, Founder and President of WEALTH \(WCPD Inc.\), shared insights into his company's latest achievement: a record-breaking $100 million charity flow-through financing deal. Nicholson explained that charity flow-through shares, a structured form of flow-through financing, offer substantial tax advantages to investors by allowing them to donate stock without paying capital gains tax. He noted that the Canadian government introduced this structure in 2006 to encourage charitable donations and incentivize investment in the junior mining sector. Nicholson emphasized, "We are de-risking a very volatile junior mining investment by selling it to a third-party liquidity provider," enabling investors to benefit without taking on excessive risk.

This particular $100 million deal, which was part of a larger $1 billion financing for Skeena Resources Ltd. (TSX: SKE | NYSE: SKE) in British Columbia's Golden Triangle, represents a significant milestone for WEALTH. Nicholson highlighted that this financing is specifically targeted at Canadian development expenses (CDE) and is expected to aid in the development of Skeena's mining operations. "The $100 million CDE was a record," he remarked, adding that this surpasses previous records in the space and reflects WEALTH's leadership in flow-through transactions. Nicholson also mentioned that WEALTH has facilitated over 720 structured flow-through deals since its inception, underscoring the firm's dominant position in the market.
