January 9, 2019 (Source) – Scannable Technology Grants Patients Access to Descriptions, Reviews and Dosing Information for Evolve Formulas Products

NanoSphere Health Sciences, Inc. (CSE:NSHS) (OTC:NSHSF), the biotechnology leader behind the patented NanoSphere Delivery System™, today announced the launch of its new, DoseCode-enabled Evolve Formulas products in the Colorado market, leveraging industry-first technology from Denver-based healthcare startup Gofire.

The Gofire DoseCode is a branded QR code attached to exclusive plant-based medical products found in hundreds of retailers across Colorado. When patients download the Gofire app, they can use their phones to scan the DoseCode on Evolve Formulas products, allowing them to access and save detailed descriptions, anonymous patient reviews and ratings, complete batch and lab testing information, as well as dosing recommendations from a community of peers who are also seeking relief. Through an anonymous, secure personal profile, patients can use the app to track their own results, document their top-rated products and record dosage preferences.

“Powered by the groundbreaking NanoSphere Delivery System™, Evolve Formulas products deliver unparalleled results in precise and consistent dosages. Utilizing the Gofire DoseCode will enable Evolve patients to see firsthand our exceptional lab results and to track and build a reliable experience,” said Robert Sutton, Chairman and CEO of NanoSphere Health Sciences. “Through our complementary technologies, NanoSphere looks forward to joining Gofire in educating patients on product selection and controlled dosing to help unlock the maximum therapeutic benefits of plant-based medicine.”

DoseCode-enabled Evolve Formulas products—including the Transdermal NanoSerum™ THC and Transdermal NanoSerum™ CBD with Resveratrol—will hit dispensary shelves across Colorado next week.
