

Francis Bellido Discusses Quantum eMotion's Partnership with Quantolio to Revolutionize Financial AI and Cybersecurity

written by InvestorNews | February 26, 2025

February 26, 2025 – Quantum eMotion Corp. (TSXV: QNC | OTCQB: QNCCF), a pioneering leader in quantum cybersecurity, has announced a significant strategic partnership with Quantolio, a provider of AI-driven financial solutions. This collaboration will see Quantum eMotion's proprietary Entropy-as-a-Service (EaaS) technology integrated into Quantolio's AI-powered financial platforms, enhancing their security and performance. Francis Bellido, President, CEO, and Director of Quantum eMotion, emphasized the transformative potential of the partnership, stating, "The integration of quantum randomness into AI-driven financial applications will dramatically improve performance, particularly in forecasting and decision-making processes." The partnership is expected to push the boundaries of Quantum AI, enabling more precise predictions and more secure financial transactions, marking a key step in advancing quantum technology in the financial sector.

In addition to the deal with Quantolio, Bellido discussed the company's broad growth trajectory, emphasizing its plans for future commercialization and potential expansion into the NASDAQ. He highlighted the growing demand for quantum-enhanced security solutions across various industries, including finance, healthcare, and energy. Reflecting on the increasing threats posed by quantum computing to cybersecurity, Bellido remarked, “We are preparing today’s platforms for the quantum attacks of tomorrow,” emphasizing the critical role of quantum solutions in safeguarding the energy grids and other vital infrastructures. With this latest milestone, Quantum eMotion is positioning itself at the forefront of the emerging quantum cybersecurity market, which Bellido believes holds nearly infinite opportunities for investors.
